MARINE GUARD WILL PROTECT CAPITAL MAIL

Twenty-Five Heavily Armed Sea Soldiers Now Patrolling Union Station

WILL SHOOT TO KILL

Secretary Denby Issues Orders to Men to Kill Robbers or Die at Their Posts.

Twenty-five armed Marines, with orders to "shoot to kill," are patrolling Washington Union Station and guarding local mail delivery trucks and local postoffice stations, as part of the Marine offensive launched yesterday by Secretary of the Navy Denby and Postmaster General Hays.

Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant of the Marine Corps, late Saturday dispatched an army of 1,000 fighting "Devil Dogs" from Quantico to all sections of the nation to guard the mails.

"The mail must be delivered, or there must be a Marine dead at the post of duty," were Secretary Denby's orders, given through General Lejeune Saturday night as the forces entrained.

"If two Marines guarding a mail car are suddenly covered by a robber, neither must hold up his hands, but both must begin shooting at once. One may be killed but the other will get the robber, and save the mail," read the message of Secretary Denby, who was a member of the Marine Corps during the war.

The Marine detail in charge of the mails in this city is under the command of Capt. Jacob Lienhard, according to Marine authorities at Quantico. For the present the mail guards will be quartered at the Washington Navy Yard, but may later be housed at points nearer their posts, if it becomes necessary.

The fighting forces are today en route to assignments in every section of the country, and within the next 24 hours all United States mail trains will be under guard by the Marines, completely armed. Detachments left here throughout the day yesterday for the locations assigned.

Although the call to duty lacked somewhat the thrill of war service, the dusky "Devil Dogs" appeared eager for the chance of action, and the change from the tiring routine of camp life, as they boarded trains in the Union Station.

Nor did the forest-green-clad veterans take their new assignment lightly. It was anticipation of action, not of relief from monotony of camp service, which shone in the eyes of the armed squads as they awaited their trains.

The order of Secretary Denby to his men reads:

"Men of the Mail Guard:

"I am proud that my oid corps has been chosen for a duty as honorable and so hard as that of protecting the United States mail. I am very anxious that you shall successfully accomplish your mission. It is not going to be easy work. It will always be dangerous and generally tiresome. You know how to do it. Be sure you do it well. I know you will neither fear nor shirk any duty, however, hazardous or exacting.

"This particular work will lack the excitement and glamor of war duty, but it will be no less important. It has the same element of service to the country.

"I look with proud confidence to you to show now the qualities that have made the corps so well-beloved by our citizens.

"You must be brave, as you always are. You must be constantly alert. You must when on guard duty, keep your weapons in hand and, if attacked, shoot and shoot to kill. There is no compromise in this battle with bandits.

"If two Marines, guarding a mail car, for example, are suddenly covered by a robber, neither must hold up his hands, but both must begin shooting at once. One may be killed, but the other will get the robber and save the mail. That is the spirit of the corps. When our men go in as guards over mail, that mail must be delivered or there must be a Marine dead at the post of duty.

"To be sure of success, every Marine on this duty must be as watchful as a cat, hour after hour, night after night, week after week. No Marine must drink a drop of intoxicating liquor. Every Marine must be most careful with whom he associates and what his occupations are off duty. There may be many tricks tried to get you and you must not be tricked. Look out for women. Never discuss the details of your duty with outsiders. Never give up to another the trust you are charged with.

"Never forget that the honor of the corps is in your keeping. You have been given a great trust. I am confident you will prove that it has not been misplaced.

"I am proud of you and I believe in you with all my heart."

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 14—The plan of Secretary of State Hughes for naval disarmament made known to the foreign delegates at the vrst meeting of the conference on Saturday, took most of them off their feet. They were not prepared for any such move on the part of the United States and they were at a loss to understand the real significance of the situation thus occasioned.

Both Japan and Great Britain will have to do a lot of communicating with their home governments before their delegates represented at the arms conference will be able to declare their position on the plan suggested by the American Secretary of State.

The plan as peoposed by Secreary Hughs will eliminate all capital warship programs, actual and contemplated and further reduction of naval armament through scrapping of older ships. It would limit America's naval strength to eighteen capital ships of 500,650 tons; Britain's to twenty-two capital ships of 604,450 tons and Japan's to ten capital ships of 299,700 tons.

The agreement would run ten years and affect only America, Japan and Great Britain. When replacemens begin, no warship of more than 35,000 tons could be built. Under the limitation proposals, America would scrap fifteen capital ships, thirteen under construction and two just launched, costing $332,000,000 and totaling 518,000 tons.

It is an interesting piece of information that comes to Washington via Berlin to the affect that Karl Von Bergmann, former under secretary of finance, now at the National Capital, is to be the new Ambassador from Germany to the United States. It is said that Von Bergmann will assume his new duties just as soon as President Harding issues the formal proclamation declaring the resumption of diplomatic relations beween this government and Germany. This proclamation will probably be issued within the next day or two.

President Harding only last week declared that he had not decided upon the appointment of an American Ambassador to Germany. It was generally understood at one time that Loring Dressel, American High Commissioner at Berlin, would be selected for this place and his friends have been very active in his behalf. The name of Dr. David Jayne Hill, former Ambassador at Berlin, is also being brought forth in this connection. Dr. Hill has just returned to the United States after a visit to Germany and Switzerland. He says Germans are going to work now and gradually recovering from the effects of the war.

President Harding is being besieged with letters and telegrams from religious and patriotic organizations in all parts of the country praying for the success of the arms conference. Many of these communications are high in their praise of the Chief Executive for calling the conference and their wishes go with them. There is no doubt but that the sentiment of the country, as a whole, is in favor of a reduction in both naval and military armaments in order to relieve some of the tax burden now resting upon the shoulders of the citizens not only of this country but of other leading nations as well. If war can be made impossible through agreements between the leading nations, civilization will have been benefitted in more ways than one.

Two young girls who had "hiked" all the way from New York to Washington, shook hands with President Harding on Saturday afternoon. Both were attired in khaki trousers, flannel shirts, slouch hats and boots. They say they were not molested by anyone during their entire trip although one carried a large hunting knife while the other was armed with a police whistle, One of the girls is a graduate of Cornell University while the other is a junior at Columbia College, New York. They had two weeks in which to make the round trip and were given "lifts" from accomodating autoists, but refused to ride on trains or street cars. They stopped at the Y. W. C. A. in Philadelphia and Baltimore and seemed none the worse off as a result of their long tramp.

125 CONVERSIONS

Union Evangelistic Services Closed Last Night

The union evangelistic services which have been in progress for the past four weeks, being participated in by the congregations of the Methodist Protestant and Trinity M. E. Churches, closed last night at Trinity M. E. Church. A total of 125 conversions were reported as a result of these services. The services were most successful and each night attracted large crowds.

The sermon last night was preached by Rev. Robert Browne, pastor of the Methodist Church, who took as his text, Acts of Apostles, 16 Chapter, 30 verse, "What Shall I Do To Be Saved?" and the services were conducted by Rev. Dr. D. H. Martin, pastor of Trinity Church.

HIT OFFICER AND TAKE HIS TWO PRISONERS

Policeman George Nalls Knocked Down Yesterday and Stunned

ESCAPE IN AUTO

Three Friends of Prisoners Came Behind Policeman in Machine and One Assaulted The Officer.

Policeman George R. Nalls while taking two prisoners to police station at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon was knocked down by an unidentifed man and partially rendered unconscious and his prisoners escaped in an automobile of companions who came to the assistance of the prisoners.

Policeman Nalls today is able to be out but the left side of his face is badly bruised, he evidently being struck several times. The officer at the time was off duty and did not have his pistol or blackjack.

The officer said his attention was directed to the men at the shipyard during the progress of game of foot ball and he took the men in custody. According to persons living in the neighborhood, three men n an automobile, evidently friends of the prisonr, slowly followed the officer and his prisoners and when at the corner of Franklin and Fairfax streets, the machine was stopped and one of the men jumped out and came to the assistance of the prisoners and without warning attacked the officer, knocking him down. Policeman Nalls shortly afterward made a report of the assault to police headquarters and Chief Goods and other members of the police force scoured in search of the men the neighborhood without success.

UNIQUE TRUCK

An advertising automobile with a unique "stunt" body visited Alexandria today, and attracted considerable attention. The car is a one-ton truck with an extension frame, and is fitted with a large tubular body fifteen feet long by fifty inches high, the body, in shape, coloring and lettering being a reproduction of a package of Pep-O-Mint "Life Savers." The car is in charge of Mr. L. L. Post, who is traveling with this car through the State. This car, he states, is one of several traveling all over the United States, advertising "Life Savers," which are being distributed free in large quantities during the advertising campaign.

Death of Old Resident

Miss Gwynne B. Slye died at eight o'clock last night at her residence on the north side of Cameron between Washington and Columbus streets. The deceased was one of Alexandria's' oldest residents. She had been in failing health for a long time. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Meeting At Quantico

There was a very large attendance of the Marines at Quantico, Va., last evening, at which service Post Chaplain Edwin B. Niver presided, and an address was delivered on world peace by Rev. Dr. Jno. Lee Allison. of this city. The music was led by Mr. Slayton as director, and Mrs. Slayton presided at the organ.

Virginia A. C. Downs Mercury A. C.

When the heavy Mercury A. C. foot ball team stepped out on the field yesterday, to face the Virgnia A. C., they were confident of walking away with the game. The Virginians kicked off, and immediately after the first clash, the Mercurys decided they had under-estimated their opponents. Both teams played air-tight football, the ball being in the center of the field the greater part of the game, neither team scoring until the fourth quarter, when the Virginians by a series of line plunges and off-tackle plays, went over the line for the only touchdown of the game. Fullback Peyton rushed the ball over the line, and also kicked goal. Schaffer, Yates, and Peyton starred for the winners, while the kicking of the Mercury Fullback, was the feature of the game. Local followers of football judged this game to be the best played in Alexandria this year by any teams.

Rites for Miss Crumbaugh

Funeral services for Miss Naomi Crumbaugh, of Lincolnia, Fairfax County, who was taken ill while visiting Mrs. James, at 411 South St. Asaph street last Monday, and died Thursday, were held at Lincolnia Methodist Church South at 11 a. m., yesterday. Burial was at Walker Chapel cemetery, Walker Chapel, Va.

CASE RESUMED

Adams Will Case In Progrss In Circuit Court

The taking of testimony in the suit over the will of the late Lewis M. Adams today was resumed in the circuit court for this city before a jury, Judge S. G. Brent presiding. At noon today Charles M. Adams, brother of Lewis M. Adams, took the stand and testifed.

It is expected that the case probably will go to the jury tomorrow. The suit has been in progress since last Tuesday and this is the second trial of the case, the jury in the first trial being unable to reach an agreement.

Hunters Are Busy

Nearly 1200 Licenses Issued Thus Far By Clerk Of Courts

"At the rate hunters are getting hunting licenses there will not be a single rabbit left in the state of Virginia" declared Nevell S. Greenaway, clerk of the courts today.

Up to the present time 1160 hunting licenses have been issued by him. This is a far greater number than ever before issued and the end he says is not in sight. The majority of the licenses are for the counties. Many, however, are good for any county in the state. A large number also have been issued to non-resident hunters.

AUTUMN SUPPER

To Be Given Tomorrow, Wednesday, And Thursday Evening at Lyceum Hall

An autumn festival and supper will be given tomorrow night, Wednesday and Thursday at the Lyceum Hall under the auspices of the Catholic Daugghters of America. The committee of ladies in charge promise a delicious supper with a change of menu each evening. The public is invited. The price of the supper is only fifty cents. Supper will be served each evening from 6 till 10 o'clock.

Proceeds of the affair will be for the benefit of St. Anthony's Church, Bailey's Cross Roads.

Many useful articles suitable for Christmas gifts also will be on sale.

Concert November 29 By St. Paul's Choir

The musical public will be glad to learn that the annual concerts given by the choir of St. Paul's Church for so many years will be resumed this season.

At the requst of a number of their friends the one this year will be an "Old Folks." They will be assisted by several of their former soloists.

The date selected is Tuesday, November 29. Further announcement will appear later.

CAPTURE EIGHT

Raid Made On Samuel Petrello's Place By Police

Samuel Petrello, a barber, who conducts a place of business at 802 King street, today was charged in the police court with a violation of the state prohibition law. Eight quarts of what the police say is rye whisky were offered to the court as evidence. The police testified that yesterday afternoon they went to Petrello's place of business and captured the liquor beneath a porch in the yard.

According to Petrello the whisky was brought to his place by a man from Washington and if the liquor was good as represented said he intended to purchase a dozen quarts for his personal use.

The liquor, he claimed, however, did not come up to expectations and Petrello intended to return it as he had not yet paid for it. The accused was required to furnish bond in the sum of $500. The raid was made by Sergt. Wilknson, Policemen Durrer and Magner.

ALEXANDRIA SECOND IN WAGE GAINS

Figures of 1919 Census Announced—Porstmouth First

INDUSTRIES INCLUDED

Pay of Works Here Has Increased From $585,000 to $5,446,000—Value of Products Increased.

The city of Alexandria, the nearest industrial neighbor of Washington, made the second best showing among the Virginia cities on increases in wages paid, and ranks third in the increase in the value of her products, under the census of manufactures for 1919, compared with similar reports for 1914. Portsmouth stands first in increase in wages paid, and second in enhancement of value of its products. Danville showed the greatest increase in the value of products, but stands third in the matter of increase in wages. Richmond, Norfolk and Roanoke, the three chief cities of the Old Dominion are outstripped by the small towns named.

The summary for the cities of Virginia, for the years 1919, compared with 1914, issued by the census office Saturday disclose the following interesting facts:

Alexandria, population, 18,060. Number of establishments, reduced from 49 to 35; wage earners, increased from 1,504 to 4,012; wages, increased from $858,000 to $5,446,000; percentage of increase, 534.7; value of products, increased from $3,660,000 to $16,908,000; percentage of increase, 362.

Danville, population, 21,539. Number of establishments, increased from 43 to 44; wage earners, increased from 2,691 to 5,827; wages, increased from $1,042,000 to $5,611,000; percentage of increase, 438.5; value of products, increased from $5,558,000 to $30,183,000; percentage of increase, 443.1.

Lynchburg, population, 30,070. Number of establishments, decreased from 73 to 65; wage earners, increased from 3,474 to 4,486; wages, increased from $1,545,00! to $4,467,000; percentage of increase, 189.1; value of products, increased from $9,919,000 to $27,450,000; percentage of increase, 176.7.

Norfolk, population, 115,777. Number of establishments decreased from 209 to 207; wage earners reduced from 5,263 to 5,119; wages increased from $2,258,000 to $5,984,000; percentage of increase, 165; value of products increased from $13,71!,000 to $29,588,000; percentage of increase, 115.8.

Petersburg, population, 31,012. Number of establishments increased from 87 to 116; wage earners increased from 3,903 to 4,891; wages increased from $1.392,000 to $3,791,000; percentage of increase, 172.3; value of products increased from $12,610,000 to $26,440,000; percentage of increase, 109.7.

STILL CAPTURED

Young Man Named Richard Harlow Held For Grand Jury

In a raid made Saturday night by Chief Goods, Sergt. Campbell and Policemen Durrer and Magner at a place on North Washington street extended, the police captured a 20 gallon still. They also took in custody a young man giving the name of Richard Harlow, and the accused today was held in the police court for the action of the grand jury on a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Harlow was represented by Attorney H. Noel Garner. He gave a bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance when wanted.

Women's National Foundation

There is an effort on the part of the Woman's National Foundation to get the various states to celebrate November 15, as the day for local organization.

Each city or community is to have as many branches as possible. About one year go, Miss Helen Norris Cummings was urged to undertake this work, but has only just been prevailed upon to accept the appointment of chairman of the entire state. Mrs. Lockwood, president of the Federated Clubs of Virginia, has been appointed vice chairman of the state.

There will be a meeting at the residence of Mrs. M. L. Horner, local chairman, 601 Duke street, tomorrow afternoon at 3.30.

VIRGINIA NEWS PARAGRAPHED

Winchester—Clarke County, famed for its blue grass and limestone, is becoming a breeding ground of national importance for thoroughbred race horses and hunters, according to prominent turfmen from many sections of the country who have been visiting the farms of that county in the last few weeks. Since Captain Phil Walker, of Pagebrook Stock Farm, saw the possibilities of Clarke County's blue grass and limestone water, B. B. Jones, oil millionaire of Oklahoma, has bought "Audley," the old Nellie Parke Custis homeplace, and is developing it into a breeding establishment.

Richmond—That Thomas B. Morton of Richmond will be the next state commissioner of labor is understood here to be practically an assured fact, although Governor-elect Trinkle has yet to make known his intentions as to this appointment as well as others which he will make. Hiram M. Smith, Richmond attorney and former United States attorney for this district, will be Governor Trinkle's chief of staff, announcement to this effect having been made by the Wytheville man when he made his first campaign speech in this city last spring. Mr. Smith is a son of Harry M. Smith, Jr., also an attorney of this city, who was local manager for Harry St. George Tucker of Lexington in the gubernatorial primary fight.

Richmond—One thing is settled in Virginia—the "lily white" republicans have cast a bigger vote in this state than the colored republicans. The colored voters did not stick to Mitchell the "lily black" candidate, except in a few scattered sections. In one precinct in Prince Edward county there were thirty colored voters registered and Mitchell received not one of their votes.

Norfolk—Rev. John Lee Allison, of Alexandria, was the principal speaker last night at an Armistice Day ceremonial and initiation by the Norfolk and Portsmouth Odd Fellows at the tabernacle. Eighty men were initiated into the 1st degree of the order before an audience of more than a thousand Odd Fellows from the two cities.

Richmond—Argument has been completed in the supreme court of appeals in the case of the commonwealth against Price. Price is a magistrate in Brunswick county and issued a warrant to conduct a raid on a still. The constable secured several men to make the trip and they succeeded in taking the still and 55 gallons of liquor. The liquor was taken to the office of the magistrate and delivered to him, and the care of the liquor then, became his duty. The magistrate is alleged to have asked several friends to pass on whether the seized goods was liquor and allowed them to sample it. Several of the "experts" said it was liquor. The charge against the magistrate was that he had given away the intoxicants. The court aned him $50, and it is from this that the appeal is taken.

Richmond—Forty marines from Quantico are here in charge of two commissioned officers, their purpose being to ride the mail wagons to and from the postffice to the trains and to travel with the railway mail clerks between here and Atlanta and from here to Washington. The men are all marksmen and have been instructed to shoot to kill when they have reason to believe that an effort is being made to interfere with the mails. Trains leaving here have been carrying large sums of money.

Richmond—The first issue of "The Beacon," a four-page monthly, published by the prisoners of the Virginia state penitentiary, has made its appearance. It is the result of a request from the prisoners in the institution, and is devoted to their interests. It is the latest fruit of the reform that began in the penitentiary about eighteen months ago. Publication of the paper is under the direction of H. P. Bragg, director of the industrial department, though a large part of the material in the current issue was prepared by the prisoners themselves, and in each succeeding issue this will be developed to a greater extent. The type was set, proofs read, forms made up and printing done within the prison.

Lynchburg—Judge C. A. Woodrum, of Roanoke, was the orator here yesterday at the ceremonies attending the formal laying of the corner-stone for the new Riverside Public School, at Columbia and Rivermont Avenues. The ceremonies were conducted by the Red Cross Council, J. O. U. A. M., of this city, officers of which were assisted by State council officers. The exercises followed a parade throuvh the business section those participating being met at the Rivermont Viaduct and were taken by automobiles a mile distant to the school building.

PROBE SHOOTING

A coroner's jury summoned by Dr. T. M. Jones will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Demaine's mortuary chapel when testimony will be taken in the fatal shooting of Elmer Ferris, colored, who is alleged to have been shot by Walter Johnson, colored, October 28. Ferris died at the Alexandria Hospital Thursday night.

EXPERTS STUDY HUGHES ARMS PROPOSALS

Committees Preparing New Program—British Had Brought Plan

RECEPTION TO JAPS

Great Britain May Point Out Perils in Proposed 10-Year Naval Holiday.

While experts of Great Britain and Japan continue their investigation of the Hughes proposals for limtation of naval armament, the joint committee named on Saturday will today complete the future program of the conference. These committees will meet in the Pan American building. They will be prepared tomorrow to suggest to the entire conference how the work to be accomplished shall be apportioned.

The committees will meet behind closed doors. There will be no announcement concerning their program until it is submitted to the conference as a whole.

Meanwhile the Japanese and British delegations were adding nothing more specific to what they would do with the Hughes proposals than that they seemed acceptable in principle. They await the final reports of their experts. The Japanese delegation held a brief meeting yesterday. The British will get together today under the leadership of Mr. Balfour.

The outstanding development yesterday was the reception tendered to the Japanese delegates at the Shoreham Hotel, where they have been making their headquarters. Prince Tokuawa chairman of the delegation, in a brief speech took occasion to make it plain that Japan was entirely convinced that the United States was in no way her enemy. The reception was taken advantage of as a vehicle to bring the Japanese delegates and advisers closer to a select list of Washingtonians.

The French delegates have yet to indicate their real position on the Harding proposals. They continue to express surprise at their boldness. But what postion France will take on them is still to be decided, and it is understood that Premier Briand has not indicated whether he will inject into their consideration his demand that France be assured protection from German aggression when the proposals come up for discussion, or will await decision by the three nations most vitally interested and then press his point.

It was intimated in British quarters yesterday that Lord Lee had come to this country with a proposal for capital-ship scrapping very similar to that of Mr. Hughes and that, because of this, the British might definitely accept tomorrow the proposed actual limitation and then debate the practicability of the ten year holiday and replacement suggestions, holding that complete cessation of work in shipyards might prove dangerous.

The representatives of the nations outside of the 'Big Five' want a start made on the problems of the Far East and the Pacific. The Chnese delegates want the United States to show its hand concerning their own immediate problems. They have assumed the position that inasmuch as Chairman Hughes, in stating the suggestions of the United States at the outset of the deliberations gave work to the other "Big Five" delegations, it would be only fair that he now develop the policies that the United States thinks could wisely be followed in the Far East, so that delegates now compelled to assume a "waiting attitude" could get to work. In this position the Chinese are backed up by the Belgian, Holland and Portuguese missions.

Of course there has not been nor will there be any formal demand made for such action. Polite suggestion will be as far as the Chinese or any of the other lesser delegations would go. But at the committee meetings they will hopefully intimate that they want to make progress.

POLICE COURT

Cases disposed of today in the police court follow: A man charged by Policeman Magner and Durrer with disorderly conduct, fined $20; man charged by Policeman Durrer and Magner, with violating the speed law, fined $10; four boys cited by Chief Goods and Sergt. Wilkinson, charged with throwing stones at a man's house, two larger boys fined $10 each and the smaller ones $5 each; two white men arrested by special officer Rector and Yardmaster Griffith, who it is alleged escaped from the reformatory at Lorton, Va., were turned over to the Fairfax authorities for investigation; man arrested by Policemen Magner and Durrer, trespassing on the property of the Southern Railway Company, was held for ten days for investigation.

HUGHES' PROPOSALS

The program outlined by Secretary Hughes is abruptly frank and straight to the point. It will probably be productive of two things in the Conference itself: open discussion and concrete argument. Flowery orations, idealistic theories, abstract generalizations, with all their train of embellishment and amplification, will be relegated to the scrap-heap. Out of this should grow some practical modus vivendi that will form a solid basis for future conferences. As we have said, the abolition of war is a matter of slow evolution. The final goal, however, will be in plain sight if the present conference does its duty whole-heartedly and sincerely. That goal is nothing more or less than a world-shrievalty of the high seas, whose main object is to police the oceans and keep the peace.

The difficulty, as we see it, is mainly one of good faith, and involves the question as to whether all the nations are educated up to the same lofty viewpoint. There is Japan, for instance. The Japanese, both as a nation, and as individuals, are not noted for honesty. It is a matter of common knowledge, wherever the Japanese are employed as servants, that they cannot be trusted to any great degree. Whereas, the Chinese enjoy exactly the opposite reputation. Likewise, in matters of diplomacy and national scope, the same people are looked upon with world-wide suspicion.

Suppose Japan concurs in the Conference conclusions. The question is, would she live up to her agreements? Would she not secretly evade them and redouble her present strenuous efforts at building a navy greatly superior to that of the United States? She has a thousand secluded harbors and bays where this could go on without detection. Or, she might ostensibly build merchant vessels that would in reality be war-vessels, or so convertible on the shortest notice.

In fact, were any of the nations that may be parties to a conference-compact, to be threatened by a non-conference nation, we doubt if they would refrain from at once putting themselves into a state of readiness on the sea. That is, any nation but Uncle Sam. He is so good-natured, so honest, so altruistic himself, and, as a rule, so utterly given up to his own fatuous dreams, that he would probably not awaken till too late. His navy would be swept aside, the guns of the enemy thundering at his seaboard, the aerial squadrons hovering over his cities, his Pacific possessions an easy prey to the hostile ships of war—before he realized that he was in for a fight!

This may sound like a harsh indictment. But we have the Spanish-American War and the World War, both, as incontrovertible evidences of his sluggishness, and—we had almost said—stupidity.

Doubtless the Conference will consider all this and being forewarned will be fore-armed. We hope so. At any rate the present gathering is quite the most important event that has taken place since the beginning of civilization, and despite blunderings and halting steps, is destined to forge the first link in the chain of perpetual peace that shall some day hold the world in willing bondage.

School of Personality

Lecture Next Thursday Evening In Westminster Building

A new school is being started in Alexandria under the auspices of the Roberson School of Personality. Mrs. Harriette Gunn Roberson, president of the school, will deliver the opening lecture in the Westminster Building Thursday evening, November 17, at 8 o'clock. After a musical program Mrs. Roberson will deliver her famous Chautauqua lecture "Success Where You Are," dealing with how to find the road to your personal success. Several people from the audience will be given a character reading by Mrs. Roberson, according to the latest principles of character analysis.

A course of lectures will follow in public speaking, personality, building, character analysis, and dramatic arts. Dates for these lectures will be announced later.

Mrs. Roberson, through her lectures in Washington, has personally inspired thousands, who, now scattered to all parts of the world, have made her school international in its influence. Since the establishment of diploma courses in March, 1920, the school has grown from an enrollment of six to more than one thousand.

Mrs. Roberson comes from a long line of authors, among them Louisa May Alcott author of "Little Women," and she says she is from "Scotch-Heathen" ancestry. She is graduated from Burlington Institute College, National Kindergarten College, Chicago, and Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York where she majored in Psychology. Later she did post-graduate work under Dr. Muensterberg, of Harvard University. She has lectured on the Chautauqua. Platform for the past six years with distinguished success.

Mrs. Roberson is a member of the League of American Penwomen, the International Lyceum Association, and the National Conference of American Lecturers.

Father and Son Supper

Boys Entertain Fathers at Chamber of Commerce

That the boys of Alexandria are appreciative of the work which the Y. M. C. A. is doing for them was abundantly evidenced by the enthusiasm which they showed at the "Father and Son" Supper served them at the Chamber of Commerce last night. All "Y" boys were invited to attend on the condition that each boy should bring his father and thus get better acquainted with each other and with the work for boys which is now so many sided. It was very gratifying to have over twenty fathers accept this invitation and come out with their sons to enjoy a good supper and an evening's entertainment together.

When six o'clock sounded Secretary Wallace who had been greeting the boys and their parents in the Club Room, escorted them to their places at the attractive supper tables in the Auditorium, where covers were laid for over sixty, and every nook and corner was filled. The Ladies' Auxiliary who were giving the supper in appreciation of the boys work of the "Y" did everything possible to make the boys enjoy themselves with a spread such as boys usually like,—some cooked baked beans, frankfurters, cold slaw, coffee or hot chocolate ice ream and cakes.

When everybody seemed satisfied Mr. Wallace introduced to the crowd Mr. C. C. Lamond, who as President of the Association warmly greeted the boys and their fathers who were present. Mr. A. J. Rhodes, who was referred to as an enthusiastic father of one of the summer camp boys, entertained all with two readings, then the boys themselves were called upon to tell of the various activities with which they were associated. The manner in which the boys responded when called upon ex tempore was most remarkable. As one father said afterward, "If the 'Y' had done nothing more for these boys than to help them find' themselves so that they might give such expression as they did to the thoughts in their hearts, its work would still be most worth while."

Among those who did their part to describe the "Y" work were Robert Cochran who spoke of the summer camping trip; Edward Scott describing a typical "Pioneer" meeting, Lester McMinamin, telling of the weekly "Gym" class; Marshall Travers and John Sherman Fowler and Howard Baggett with a description of the older boys' conference held recently at Lynchburg, and Eugene Jackson telling of the organization of the High School Boys' Bible Class which resulted from their attendance at this conference. Mr. Robert E. Wright, Jr., who was a guest at the supper also spoke of the Bible Class of which he is the teacher. Dr. E. B. Jackson and Rev. Percy Foster Hall later addressed the boys, after which motion pictures were thrown on the screen and the boys enjoyed their favorite, Charlie Chaplin in "The Cure."

Among the needs of the work mentioned by Mr. Wallace in course of evening were a place where woodworking classes for boys might be held and other courses for which instruction has been offered by friends of the association. Wireless telegraphy and kodak developing were among those mentioned. It was very apparent that when the association needs most is a home of its own where humble or pretentious, but at any rate sufficiently large to enable the "Y" to center its activities under one roof,—where old men, young men and the teen age boy who is so often unwelcome because of his activity, might have a place to call their own, where they might have physical, social and educational opportunities under wholesome influences which develop the moral character of those who enjoy them and which tend to raise the standard of citizenship in the community.

Lets Children Marry.

Kansas City, Mo.—M. F. Burch, father of 15 children, appeared before Probate Judge Sims and applied for a license to permit his thirteen-year-old daughter, Goldie, to be married to Jerry M. Hines, twenty-four. This will be the second marriage of young members of the Burch family. A fifteen-year-old son, John, married Carmen L. Elliot, thirteen years of age.

Boy in Pennsylvania Is Older Than Great-Aunt

Bellefonte, Pa.—George W. Weaver enjoys the distinction of having a great-grandchild who is older than his youngest daughter, and Mr. Weaver himself is only sixty-eight years old. He has been married twice and is the father of 18 children, 13 of whom are living. His oldest granddaughter married Edward Askey. Their eldest son is thirteen and older than Mr. Weaver's youngest daughter by his second marriage, who is great-aunt to the lad, who was born before her.

In the foregoing figures "wage earners" do not include salaried persons, proprietors or firm members. The word "establishment" as used in census reports may mean more than one mill or plant, provided they are owned or controlled and operated by a single individual, partnership, corporation or other owner or operator and are located in the same town or city. These reports exclude the hand trades, the building trades, and the neighborhood industries, and take account only of establishments conducted under the so-called factory system.

GETTING RID OF A NASTY TEMPER

How Gude's' Pepto-Mangan Relieves Ill Humor of Bad Health

When ill humor becomes chronic and a man or a woman who should be genial becomes known as a "grouch," nine itmes out of ten the cause is physical. When blood gets weak and full of poison it leaves the body weak, the face pale, and causes a tired feeling. There is no endurance. Nerves get all tattered, because in a weak-blooded condition the body is not nourished sufficiently with the oxygen that rich red blood supplies.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan is a blood-builder and when taken in steady doses for a while it causes a flood of fresh red blood cells to stream through the body, bringing robust health and strength. With good blood, rich and red, there are no "grouches." Life looks good and pleasures are keenly enjoyed.

Druggists have Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid and tablet form. Be sure to get the genuine with the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package. Advertisement.

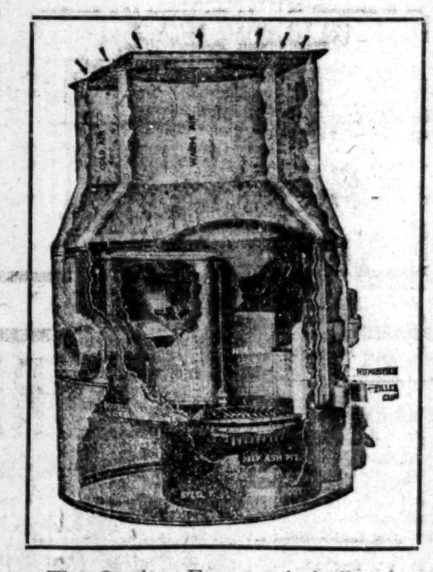
"There's a Blizzard on the Way"

SOME morning this winter your family will face that reality. Will you be ready for it? Don't forget the dangers and discomforts of last winter. Don't put off the selection of a new heating plant for your home too long. Don't go through another winter without the cozy comfort of "QUAKER" Heat.



Now is the best time to prepare your house for the damp, chill winds and the cold days that are sure to come. If you install a QUAKER FURNACE now, you'll not mind the time when "there's a blizzard on the way" because

"Quaker" Heat is Quicker Heat

"The Pipeless Furnace That's Built of Steel"

The Quaker Furnace is built of steel, which radiates heat three times as fast as cast iron. Yet the Quaker holds the heat longer because the firepot is lined with FIRE BRICK like the crucible of a blast furnace.

Quaker Heat is cleaner heat, too. The joints are riveted like a boiler. No cement to crack and crumble. Soot, ashes, dust and dirt positively cannot leak through. The hotter the furnace gets the tighter the joints become.

OTHER IMPORTANT FEATURES

The Quaker has an extra large water pan (with handy outside filler) which keeps the air moist and healthful. The firepot can't crack. The combustion chamber is extra large. The special hot blast saves fuel. Doors are ground EXACTLY to give perfect air-tight fit. Free catalog tells all about these and other Quaker improvements. Send for it today.

Quaker Steel Pipeless Furnaces are easily installed in old or new homes. Only one register required. Made with 18, 22, 26, and 28 inch firepots. Delivered quickly from nearest wearhouse. Send for free catalog.

STATE HIGHWAY

Warsaw, Va., Nov. 14.—The section of the State Highway between Warsaw and Fredericksburg, extending from Oak Grove to King George court house, a distance of eleven miles, has been recently rebuilt and improved. This work was under contract from the State Highway Department, and according to contract was to have been completed by January 1. Due to favorable weather conditions the improvement has been completed and is now in use.

The completion of the improvement of this section of the main highway of the Northern Neck marks a new era in "good roads" for the inhabitants of this rich section of Virginia. This has been by far the worst piece of road in the Northern Neck, certainly the worst on the main highway, and now that it has been improved the people in the lower section of the Northern Neck can travel in and out throughout the entire year.

During severe winter weather it has often been the case that when the rivers are frozen and river transportation is completely tied up, the condition of the roads of the Northern Neck were in places impassable to motor transportation. It is believed that with the State Highway leading from Reedville to Fredericksburg, improved as it has been and maintained by State Highway forces instead of by the local counties, the people will be able to use this highway throughout the winter.

Sections of the highway between Warsaw and Fredericksburg recently improved, are declared by those who travel over them to be among the prettiest sections of improved road in the state.

Hoover Reports

Washington, Nov. 14.—That more than fifty per cent of the men and women employed in American industry are sufferers from defective vision is one of the important findings of the Hoover Committee for Elimination of waste in industry.

The report, as prepared by Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, and seventeen nationally known engineers who worked with him, is being issued by the Federated American Engineering Societies, under whose auspices the gigantic survey was undertaken.

The loss in effective effort in quantity and quality work is immeasurable, the committee finds, according to L. W. Wallace, vice chairman of the committee, whose advance synopsis is the first inkling gleaned by the public of the comprehensive results of the waste study. The "reconnaissance report on waste," as Secretary Hoover terms it in his foreward to the report, was the result of a five months intensive study, planned with care and executed with rapidity. On the question of loss of production through faulty vision, Mr. Wallace presents a brief but pertinent summary.

"It is estimated that 25,000,000 workers have defective vision requiring correction," Mr. Wallace states. He uses the Easte report giving a total of 42,000,000 men and women in industry as his basis for fixing the percentage of suffering from poor eye sight. Continuing, he says:

"It has been the experience of many that there has been a serious time—labor loss from reduction of quantity and quality production due to defective vision and the fatigue produced thereby.

"The loss in effective effort, in reduced quantity and quality of work and in the comfort and contentment of the worker due to defective vision is immeasurable. It is a matter of serious moment. It is the experience of numbers of plan managers that the correction of sub-standard vision brings increased quantity and quality of production, sufficient to pay for the cost of the same. That is now being done by a number of plants.

"No industrial, professional or commercial employer can afford to neglect the health of his employes. It is good business to safeguard the health and the physical vigor of the employee.

"Organized labor should reverse its position regarding physical examinations and actively support such a means of safeguarding the health, the well being and the prosperity of the American workman."

Here For Recruits

Services Of Fifty Men Sought For Walter Reed Hospital

With the winter staring us in the face, the question of unemployment looming larger than ever, it becomes a problem for national and state governments to solve. No doubt there are thousands of men who are out of work just simply because they are looking for certain kinds of jobs only. By their long training they become adept and skilled in certain lines of work and if by some chance or unfortunate circumstances have happened to lose their posiiton they naturally have to drift along looking for another opening in their line of training and in th meantime swelling the ranks of the unamployed.

As his share of reducing unemployment Uncle Sam wants to give good position to fifty young, able-bodied men at Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C. No matter what his occuption may have been in civil life, from college student to farmer boy, as long as he is of good moral character, free from disease and physical deformities, is between eighteen and thirty-five yaers of age, unmarried, and can speak, read and write the English language Uncle Sam will take him and give him a steady job for three years. The training you have and for which you are unable to find any opening just now may be the very thing they need at Walter Reed Hospital.

What about giving up freedom and independence by joining the Army? The American soldier is more free and independnt than the average citizen in the whole land. He serves, yet is not a servant. His service is a privilege, the highest duty all citizens owe this country yet not all able to perform. He represents our best traditions, our instructions and ideals, our government and our flag. He is free and happy as a lark, and why shouldn't he? He has no cares or worries. He is getting excellent food, clean, sanitary barracks, plenty of good clothing and from $30.00 to $134.00 of spending money per month. He has just enough work and exercise in open air to keep him physically fit as a fiddle and cheerful in spirts. Strikes, crop failure, business depression, sickness and the like never worry him.

Yes, now and then he is sent from one place to another. There are very few normal people who do not like to travel, and fewer yet when that travel happens to be at Uncle Sam's expense. After showing him the country Uncle Sam pays his fare to the place of enlistment if he happens to be discharged elsewhere.

For particulars as to promotion, special ratings, service with troops in field, special training in all the branches of hospitol work, furloughs, allotments, retirements, compensation for disability and any other things of interest apply to the Recruitng Officer, Commanding Officer, Detachment Medical Department or the First Sergeant at Walter Reed General Hospital. They will be only too glad to answer any questions between the hours of 7:00 a. m., and 5:00 p .m.

Recruiting party from Walter Reed General Hospital will be in Alexandria Nov. 10th, 11th, and 12th, at the corner of King and Washington streets.

Letter From Senator Swanson

Richmond, Va., Nov. 14.—The following letter from Senator Claude A. Swanson to State Chairman H. D. Flood, dealing with the present state political campaign and calling on Virginia Democrats to go to the polls November 8, tells its own story. The letter was released by Mr. Flood for publication today, and reads, in full as follows:

"Hon. H. D. Flood, Chairman,
Democratic State Central Committee,
Richmond, Virginia.
My dear Mr. Chairman:

"I regret exceedingly I have not been able up to this time to fill appointments and speak in Virginia in connection with the present campaign.

"As you know, the revenue bill, which fixes the taxes for the United States for several years to come, and in which the people of the state are deeply interested, has been pending in the Senate ever since the opening of the campaign. We have been voting on amendments almost daily and it has been impossible for me to leave Washington up to this time. I hope the legislative situation in the Senate will be such as to enable me to leave here during the closing days of the campaign so I can make some addresses. It is imperative the Democratic senators be here now.

"I consider the present campaign one of the most important Virginia has had for many years. The result of this campaign will determine for the next four years which party Democratic or Republican will control our State government.

"If the Republican candidates should be elected at this time it means the injection of the negro into politics in Virginia again. it would mean the elimination of all restrictions upon suffrage which have had the effect of disbarring the negro and preventing him from being potential as a voter in politics in Virginia. The return of the negro as a political factor would be a detriment to the state.

"The plea of unlimited suffrage made by the Republican party is an insidious way of bringing the negro back to politics. This is the "cloven hoof" in the Republican platform. President Harding's advocacy of political equality shows the ultimate design of the Republican party, its purposes can not be disguised.

"The Democratic party stands for white supremacy, political and otherwise. The Republican party favors, as recently proclaimed by its national leader, President Harding, political equality between the races, which means if accomplished negro governors, negro representatives and varied negro officials. The democracy is opposed to this and stands for white supremacy. The issue is made and the people of Virginia should respond in favor of democracy with an overwhelming majority.

"Using such time as I have had at my disposal I have been writing to all parts of the State urging the Democrats to turn out and support the party on election day. The information I have received is encouraging, and I believe the Democratic majority will be unusually large.

"Our candidate for governor has conducted himself splendidlv. He has met all issues fully and squarely and has made a profound impression wherever he has spoken. I spoke with him at Arlington and never heard a more convincing speech. I have known Mr. Trinkle intimately for many years and he is a man of high character, splendid intellect, courage and capacity. He will make one of Virginia's ablest and most successful governors.

"I am in hopes the legislative situation in the Senate will enable me to fill such engagements as I have made.

"With kind regards and best wishes, I am,"

Your friend,
(Signed) Claude A. Swanson.

Battles before Dresden—reported defeat of Bonaparte—Occupation of Dresden by the Allies on the 13th.

We stop the press to acknowledge the arrival of a Heligoland Mail, with advices from Hamburg to the 20th, and from Altona to the 19th, these state that Bonaparte having concentrated his forces in the neighborhood of Dresden, a series of Sanguinary engagements had taken place prior to the 13th, in which he was defeated with immense loss. That he had retreated in the direction of Leipsic, and that the Allies entered Dresden, on the 13th. It is added that a part of the Crown Prince of Sweden's army was on the left bank of the Eibe, and had been very successful. No military accounts were permitted to be published in the Hamburg papers, nor any foreign Gazettes circulated.

The above intelligence exactly coincides with the accounts previously received.

High School Wins

Defeats Culpeper 20 to 0—Will Play George Mason Saturday

In one of the greatest foot ball battles ever staged in this city, Alexandria High School defeated the team of Culpeper High Saturday afternoon by the score of 20 to 0. As the standing of the various High Schools throughout the northeastern section of the State now is, Alexandria heads the list with only one rival between it and the Eastern Championship game with Maury High, of Norfolk, which will be played some time the latter part of this month. This one rival for the semi-finals is the team of George Mason High, of Braddock, and the A. H. S. boys are expecting no little trouble in ousting it from the list of possible contestants.

This game will be played on Baggett's field next Saturday and will be one which will draw a great throng of spectators because both teams are local and the contest promises to be one far from the ordinary as both teams are reported to be about evenly matched. A. H. S. having defeated the team of Leesburg by the score of 20 to 0 and George Mason having defeated the same team by the score of 23 to 0. Foot ball critics give preference to the Alexandria team, however.

At the start of the game Saturday it was thought that Alexandria would take the game with little trouble but before the quarter was ended, opinon had been changed, although two touchdowns had been scored. Culpeper battled bravely for every inch of ground before she would surrender it to her opponents. Jack Pohl and Midkiff, Alexandria's half-backs, were the boys who added to the first downs every time they were given even half a chance. Pohl's drives were hard for Culpeper to stop and Midkiff's when off for a broken field tour, was equally as hard to catch. Pohl scored the first touchdown and Dreifus kicked the goal. In some three minutes after Pohl went cross, Midkiff broke away and after a hard 30 yard run touched it down for the scond scorer of the day. Dreifus missed the goal

For the next two quarters Culpeper got together and showed some of the real game, working many novel shifts and trick plays, but through all this the Alexandria defence could see and at no time did the goal seem in danger. Green, Culpeper quarterback, was the man in which Hayman, Beach, McDermott and their contemporaries found most difficulty in stopping. During the last three minutes of play the signal was called for a forward pass and Dreifus slipped off and was far down the field before he was seen by the Culpeper boys. Pettit, with the aid of the wind, passed the ball which sailed straight down the field for 40 yards into the waiting arms of "Ikey," who, in attempting to carry it over, was thrown out of bounds by the tackler. The ball was brought out and Pohl carried it the remaining five yards with one of his smashing line drives.

Dreifus added the extra point and the Aleaxndria boys are, as a result, the ones who will in all probability contest the Eastern Championship of Virginia with the Maury team.

A PACK OF CARDS

The four suits in a pack of cards designate the four estates of men—hearts represent the clergy, spades the nobility, diamonds, the merchants and clubs the peasants.

The origin of playing cards is one of the things enshrouded in mystery. There is a pack in the British museum known to be more than 1,000 years old, and there were Japanese and Chinese playing cards in the twelfth century.

The playing cards of the fourteenth century differed materially from the pack in use today. The Venetian pack, for example, consisted of 28 cards—twenty-two of them marked with emblems of various kinds and 56 with numerals, divided into four suits of fourteen cards each.

An ordinary deck of playing cards is a perfect calendar. There are 52 cards, representing the number of weeks in a year, 365 spots, corresponding to the 365 days in the year; twelve months; four suits, clubs, spades, hearts, diamonds, representing the four seasons; thirteen cards in each suit, representing the thirteen moons in each year, and the joker makes up for the extra day in the year.

The king of clubs originally represented the arms of the pope, the king of spades those of the king of France; of diamonds, the king of Spain; of hearts, the king of England. The French kings in cards are called David (spades), Alexander (clubs), Caesar (diamonds), and Charles (hearts)—representing the Jewish, Greek, Roman and Frankish empires. The queens or dames are Argine—that is: Juno (hearts), Judith (clubs), Rachel (diamonds), and Pallas (spades)—representing royalty, fortitude, piety and wisdom. They were likenesses of Marie d'Anjou, Isabeau, Agnes Sorel and Joan d'Arc.

A Strong Bond Market

The rapidity with which certain new issues of bonds have been oversubscribed, and the fact that interest rates have shown, during the past few months, a decided tendency toward lower levels, can be taken as evidence of the trend of the bond market.

While bond prices are still low we recommend the purchase of those kinds of bonds that are recognized as the safest, as we believe that the investment demand will center on such issues for months to come.

We have selected for your consideration a list of secured mortgage bonds, essentially Southern, yielding 7 to 8 per cent.

Write for circular if you are interested in what the South can offer.

Lambrequins in the Making.

Many rooms call for lambrequins over the windows to make the decorations complete. When the ceiling is high is one of the occasions when they seem almost a necessity. When the ceiling is low, they should be avoided. To-day I am going to give you a few simple directions as to how to fashion these window trimmings, if you do not care to go to the expense of having them made to order.

Most lambrequins are made on buckram and tacked to the window casing, or to a board, usually a 2x4, that has been fastened over the window casing.

First you should measure your window from the outside of the casement on one side to the outside on the opposite side. An average width is 3 and 4 feet. When cutting the material, do not forget that the lambrequin will be fastened to a board which will extend about 4 inches in front of the casing, therefore, a good 4 inches must be allowed on either end of the lambrequin to turn around the end of the boards. These extensions of the lambrequin are known as the returns.

2. Cut a paper pattern, with the top just 4 feet 8 inches across. Shape it according to what style you have selected, scalloped or straight.

3. Cut a piece of buckram the exact size of the pattern. Buckram cannot be successfully pieced, so use it the long way.

4. Cut a piece of the lining material, just 7 inches wide, fold the long way. Now sew bottom edge on to the buckram about 2 inches down from the top. This will leave a free space on which to turn the outside material over the buckram, and it will also leave a band of the lining extending above the top about 1½ inches. This band is used to tack on to the board when the lambrequin is hung in place.

5. Cut the interlining (double faced cotton flannel) about one inch larger on all sides than the buckram. This is to turn back over the edges of the buckram to keep it from cutting through the outside material. Baste interlining to buckram on opposite side to band.

6. Now take your outside material and place face down on the table, lay ing the pattern on it. Cut material leaving an inch and a half margin on edges.

7. Place No. 5 on inside of material with cotton flannel side down. Baste around edge and through centre. Turn material and interlining back over buckram. Stitch well. Now sew band to this turned back material about one-quarter of an inch from the top.

8. Cut the lining an inch larger than the pattern and lay it wrong side down on the inside of the lambrequin. Paste through centre. Turn in edges and stitch.

9. Crease lambrequin carefully four inches from either end to make a neat return.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving remembrance of my dear grandmother, KATHERINE WYNKOOP who departed this life one year ago November 15.

In my heart your memory lingers
Sweetly tender fond and true,
There is not a day dear grandmother
That I do not think of you.
Our home is sad with out you,
Waiting for your voice till weary
Weary for I hear her not.
I did not know the pains she suffered,
I only new she past away,
And could not tell us goodbye.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving remembrance of my dear mother, KATHERINE WYNKOOP, who departed this life one year ago, November 15.

Dearest loved one who has left us,
And our loss we deeply feel,
But to God that has bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal.
Yet again we hope to meet thee,
When the day of life is fled,
When in heaven in joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tears are shed.

Pearl Rides Through the Ocean on a Sea Horse.

STELLA'S four Brownies were tremendously interested in Pearl, the Fairy at the End-of-the-Sea, especially as she was Stella's cousin. They never could hear enough of her and had listened delightedly to the stories about her Lobster, Swordfish, Crab and Portuguese Man-of-War, which, as you know, are her Brownies—just as they themselves are Stella's.

At the time I am speaking of they were quite tired, for they had been playing many games at their End-of-the-Earth home, and had run to where their Wishing Fairy was sitting, thinking that they would rest with her.

Stella had just returned from a long ride through the air on the back of her Butterfly She was telling the Brownies all about it when Pimzie suddenly asked her what Pearl rode. "For," he added, "there can be no Butterflies under the sea."

"That's true," Stella returned; "so my Mermaid cousin rides a Sea Horse in the water and when she wants to ride through the air she sits on the back of a Flying Fish."

"Goodness!" exclaimed Snookums. "That sounds interesting! Tell us about Flying Fish."

Stella began drawing. "Here," she said, "is a picture of one. As you can see, it has large fin wings and can sail through the air for quite a distance."

"But if Flying Fish use their fins for flying what do they use for swimming?" Pimzie asked curiously.

"When they return to the water," answered Stella, "they swim with their tails. I must explain about their flying, for they don't use their fin wings in the regular way that a bird uses its wings. I mean by this that instead of flying by the motion of the wings a Flying Fish leaps out of the water, using the tail to do this; then it skims through the air and sinks once more to the water, when (if it wants to fly a longer distance) it again uses its tail to leap once more from the water; but for this reason it cannot fly very high from the surface."

"Oh, yes!" exclaimed Pimzie. "I was so interested hearing about Flying Fish that I forgot all about Sea Horses. How big are they?"

"Generally about four or five inches long," was the Fairy's answer.

"And what do they eat?" asked greedy Lorykins, whose little world begins and ends with eating—and sleeping!

"Tiny sea creatures," replied Stella, "that are even smaller than they themselves are. They always travel through the water in an upright position and use their ears also for swimming; they paddle just as fast as they possibly can with them, while the tail serves as a rudder and guides them as they go."

"A Sea Horse is not as strong a little animal as one from its name would suppose, and it cannot swim a very long way without resting."

"How does it rest?"

"By twisting its tail around seaweed or water plants and holding on until it is ready to swim some more."

"I must not forget to tell you something odd," the Fairy then said. "Mr. Sea Horse instead of little Mrs. Sea Horse carries the babies around in a nice comfortable pouch on his breast."

"Pretty easy for Mrs. Sea Horse!" exclaimed Pimzie.

Stella laughed at the Brownie's indignant expression.

"Here," she said, beginning to draw, "is a picture of one, and you can see how it clutches the sea grass.

"And his head looks exactly like that of a real horse!"

Stella Tells About Swordfish and Sawfish.

TO-DAY I shall tell you some more about my Cousin Pearl, the Fairy at the End-of-the-Sea," Stella said to her own four Brownies, who were grouped around her near the magic Get Little Pool and listening with all ears to everything she had to tell them about her mysterious Mermaid relative.

"I've already told you that she has four Water Brownies who take care of her; that one is a Portuguese Man-of-War, another is a Horseshoe Crab, the third (the one I'm going to tell you about to-day) is a Swordfish. And here," she added, as she began to draw, "is a picture of one.

"Wherever my Cousin Pearl swims her pet Swordfish swims before her and clears her path through the ocean."

"And I suppose he attacks her enemies," suggested Pimzie, who was ever so interested. "From this picture of him I should think he could fight awfully well!"

"He would," Stella quickly answered, "if there were any need to; but Pearl has no enemies, for she is a Sea Fairy just as I am the Fairy at the End-of-the-Earth. All the little creatures of the sea know that she is always their very best friend."

"And does she make their wishes come true?" Snookums asked.

"When it is necessary," was the answer; "but they seldom have wishes, because, as a rule, they are rather happy.

SWORDFISH.

"The Swordfish that live way out in the open sea are very large. They are often ten feet long. They are dark blue on top and silver white below. They eat small fish," the Wishing Fairy continued. "They chase them, swim below them then quickly rise and strike them with their sword."

"Just what is their sword made of, and how long is it?" asked Lorykins.

"Swordfish are a little over three times the length of their sword," Stella said, "and the sword is made of bone; in fact," she explained, "it is the upper jawbone lengthened out into a long, sharp point. You remember," Stella went on, "I once told you about some animals having bird partners?"

"Yes," said Pimzie, "the Cow and Blackbirds are partners; also the Buffalo and Egrets; the Rhinoceros has Starling Bird friends and the Hippopotamus has Plover Bird friends."

"Have the Swordfish partners?" asked Snookums.

"Yes," answered the Fairy, "They are often seen swimming on either side of a Shark. They keep just a little ahead of it and warn it of danger You must know the difference between a Swordfish and a Sawfish," she continued, as she began drawing, "for they are quite different, as you can see from this picture."

SAWFISH.

By DOROTHY ETHEL WALSH.

So many women enjoy making articles to be used in the decoration of their home that to-day I thought I would give a few general directions as to how to fashion a silk lamp shade. The directions are simple and intended only for a simple shade. More elaborate ones need the guiding hand of an instructor that so many of the shops provide.

But where the work is to be of the "pick up" variety and the time cannot be spared for the valuable sessions at the shop the following descriptions of the process will afford an opportunity of carrying on some enjoyable work and the production of a useful and artistic article.

A wire frame is first purchased and great care should be given to its selection as much of the shade's beauty depends on its proportions and symmetry. These frames can be either purchased already made or made to order in the size required.

The necessary material is silk for the outside of the shade, a thin silk for the lining and some white seam binding. First wrap each wire tightly with the seam binding. Then sew the lining on to the frame. This process is as follows: Pin the lining to the bottom hoop, stretched plain or gathered, whichever is preferred. You then sew it firmly and draw the material inside of the frame and over the top hoop, pinning it to the latter securely. If the top hoop is smaller than the bottom one the lining must of course be gathered or plaited. These gathers or plaits must be pinned in place and then sewn. The outside silk is then pinned onto the top hoop and drawn tightly down and pinned to the bottom hoop, the gathers or plaits being placed very evenly. On both the top and the bottom of this outside material the hem should be turned back over the front as it will be covered with guimpe or fringe. The last step is to put this edging or wither by sewing or gluing. Your shade is then completed and the wire frame is between the lining and outside of the shade.

A Man's Chair.

When selecting an easy chair for father, mother should bear certain points in mind. In the first place what is a comfortable chair for one person is not necessarily a comfortable one to all persons. In fact ideas as to whether a certain chair is comfortable may vary as many times as there are persons who sit in it.

A man when reading loves dearly to stretch out and lean his head back. Therefore, if mother wishes to please him she will select a chair with a high back. Not too high, mind you, but of such length as to provide a head rest. This back should slant a little, but not too much, because if it does the head will be thrown in an uncomfortable position. The seat should be quite low and deep. Particularly is deepness necessary if the person to use the chair is tall. A tall person finds uncomfortable a chair with a shallow seat.

Another point when selecting a chair, whether it be for a masculine or feminine occupant, is to see if the padding in the upholstery is divided into separate pockets or not. It has been found that when the padding is placed in the one large cushion it is apt to sag into one end or corner, being gradually forced there from constant use. If, however, three or four compartments running crosswise through the cushion are made and the padding placed in these you may be certain the cushion will give you good wear. When purchasing a chair it is a good plan to feel the cushions. If they are pocketed as I suggest they should be the seams will run across the cushions and you can feel them with your hand.

REO

Ask Any Reo Owner

Best way to ascertain facts relative to preformance, dependability, riding quality, durability, and upkeep of any car is to inquire of owners just as you meet them.

You will be surprised how many will refuse eo recomend the make of car they are now driving.

You see, they have learned a lot, both about their own and other makes of cars, since a salesman told them this detail of outward appearance, or that of mechanical novelty.

When you ask Reo Owners, however you will be amazed at the precentage who will preface their replies by, "This is my third Reo," or "I have driven Reo cars for fifteen years," or similar assertions that say more than all the laudation that may follow.

Repeat orders are the rule, in sales of Reo cars.
That's because Reo owners, in their day to day experience, know the absolute dependability of Reos, and by comparisons have learned that Reo is almost unique in that regard.

When it comes to selecting a new car the Reo owner almost invariably says—"Why experiment?—I know what a Reo will do."

Reo alwasy a quality product— the new Reos just out are just that much better than their predecessors.

Ask Reo owners—ask ten in a row—and your selection will be a Reo.

For Reo Owners are our best salesmen.
